

Course Title	Research Methods
Course code	FIN115
Pre-required courses	None
Course Level	Fourth
Credit Hours	3 hours
Teaching Language	Arabic
Course Description:
The goal of this course is to introduce students to the most important aspects of scientific research, the use of sources of information, the characteristics of good research and researcher, steps for setting up research, scientific research methodology, samples and tools to gather information, data analysis, writing the final form of search, documenting the sources of information, and identifying sources of traditional and electronic information and their use in scientific research.
Course Aims:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identifying the nature of scientific research, its objectives and its importance, and components. • Recognizing the characteristics of good research and good researcher, types of research, Steps of preparing the research. • Identifying the research methodology and its characteristics. • Identifying types of samples, and analyzing how to select them. • Recognizing tools of gathering information its characteristics. • Discussing the controls of the formulation of the questionnaire and how to take it out. • Recognizing ways to present and analyze the data. • Recognizing ways to document the resources and information. • Recognizing ways to write the final form of the research. • Identifying sources of traditional and electronic information and how to use them in scientific research. • Identifying some of skills and research techniques in electronic resources.
Course Contents:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The nature of scientific research, its objectives and components. • Characteristics of good research and good researcher, types of research, Steps of preparing the research. • Research Methodology. • Types of samples and how to select them. • Tools of gathering information. • Controls of the formulation of the questionnaire and take it out. • Presentation and analysis of data. • Documentation of information and resources. • Writing the final form of the research. • Sources of traditional and electronic information. • Skills and research techniques in electronic resources. 	