After 4 successful online events held by the College of Medicine's Alumni and Career Development Unit at Imam Abdulrahman bin Faisal University, the fifth event was held on 14th November, 2020. The event was titled "How to Ace Your Interviews and CV" aimed to enrich the young graduates and senior medical students, among other students to advance in their career. In addition, it is an important topic and soft skill that all young practicing medical students, interns and future physicians must acquire to fulfill their dreams and achieve their career goals. The event was subdivided to two parts, the first hour was titled "How to Ace Your Interview" in which the speaker was Dr. Muhammed Al-Shahrani, who has held many administrative roles that made him an expert in this topic. The next part "How to Ace Your CV" was held by Dr. Abeer Rasheed, who has spoke on this topic on several occasions.

The number of registered attendees for this event have been beyond expectations, where the it has reached 628. The number of attendees have reached 354 interns and medical students. The attendees had a variety of backgrounds, while a number were from IAU, other attendees were studying at other universities nationwide, and a few even internationally.

Regarding feedback, as provided in the figure below, most attendees (70.9%) reported that they found the event to be excellent overall, and the subtopics to be excellent as well. The event was organized by Maha Alassaf, a 6th year medical student. In conclusion, the event was of great benefit to the targeted audience.
