The initiative was inaugurated by the acting president of the university, Prof. Fahad Al-Harbi. The campaign aims to reduce breast cancer incidence and mortality rates through community awareness and early detection. Additionally, the initiative works to build and strengthen partnerships to ensure equitable access to healthcare for targeted groups, including the Eastern Province community and university campuses in Dammam, Khobar, Dhahran, and Jubail. Prof. Fahad Al-Harbi highlighted that the efforts exerted through the (Ribbon of Hope) initiative reflect the university's ongoing contribution to raising awareness about the importance of early breast cancer detection. This issue remains a significant global health priority and is a primary concern for the healthcare sector in Saudi Arabia. The initiative focuses on tracking cancer incidence rates and their geographical distribution across regions, raising preventative awareness within the community, particularly among women, and providing modern diagnostic and treatment technologies. This global health event, which the university engages with annually, is ranked as one of the top health occasions, offering a range of diverse awareness programs.
